Introducing Thomson Reuters Regulatory Intelligence Feeds

Thomson Reuters Regulatory Intelligence Feeds ensures your organization can easily and securely integrate the most comprehensive and authoritative source of content into your business workflow process.

Comprehensive source of regulatory intelligence

As part of Thomson Reuters Regulatory Intelligence Feeds, you receive content from our regulatory database, the same source that drives our Thomson Reuters Regulatory Intelligence solution. This enables your firm to free up valuable time and resources and improves how your team manages compliance risk. This also allows for a smarter and easier workflow to be created since it follows the same standard taxonomy as Regulatory Intelligence. This seamless process ensures you receive the right information to assess any risk that could impact the business. You also receive global coverage of regulatory developments from over 1,000 supervisory bodies and more than 2,500 collections of regulatory and legislative materials.

Customize and filter the content you receive

Thomson Reuters Regulatory Intelligence Feeds provides you with an easily tailored and filtered feed creation and allows client-defined, customizable feeds for direct relevance to your organization. This simplifies the research process so you only spend time reviewing information that applies to your organization and can manage business risk based on all the facts.

This single feed can be easily and securely integrated, and when coupled with our industry-specific regulatory intelligence, it facilitates a greater understanding of developments affecting your business. The content feed is based on one XML schema, so you can intuitively filter by familiar fields – content type, geography, keyword, sector, organizations, and themes – giving you an implementation cycle that lets you customize alerts and calendars and reduces operational costs.
To stay current on complex and cross-jurisdictional changes in rules and regulations, here is a more detailed example of what is included in the parameters used to filter content:

CONTENT TYPE
- Legislative materials
- Executive materials
- Regulatory materials
- Administrative codes
- Pending and final regulations
- Pending and enacted bills
- Statutes
- Agency materials (bulletins, manuals, decisions and more)
