

Practical Law

In-House Counsel

How much time could your team save?

Thomson Reuters® Practical Law helps in-house counsel free up research and drafting time so they can spend it on other important matters. Here are a few examples of how much time attorneys can potentially save* using Practical Law.

|   | Without Practical Law | Using Practical Law | Total Time Savings |
|---|-----------------------|---------------------|--------------------|
| Reviewing an employee handbook            | 40 hours              | 8 hours             | 32 hours           |
| Drafting bylaws                           | 12 hours              | 7 hours             | 5 hours            |
| Drafting a manufacturing supply agreement | 14 hours              | 5 hours             | 9 hours            |
| Drafting a distribution agreement         | 12 hours              | 4 hours             | 8 hours            |
| Drafting a non-compete agreement          | 12 hours              | 2 hours             | 10 hours           |

Use Practical Law to:

- + Draft faster
- + Improve response times
- + Manage outside counsel costs
- + Stay on top of current legal issues

*Times stated are estimates based on subjective attorney interviews and will vary based on individual circumstances. We encourage you to take a look at Practical Law to assess how much time you will save given your specific situation. To request a free trial, visit us today at legal.thomsonreuters.com/en/products/practical-law

© 2021 Thomson Reuters. TR916624/04 21

THOMSON REUTERS®