Brexit Amendments in Regulatory Intelligence Library

Thomson Reuters Regulatory Intelligence combines world-class content with advanced technology to deliver a unique one-stop regulatory intelligence solution.

Following the announcement of the trade and cooperation agreement at the end of December 2020, which confirmed the end of the Implementation Period on December 31, the UK's onshored EU legislation now applies.

We have made changes to the source documents available via the Library to reflect these changes.

EU Directives, Regulations and Technical Standards

- We have created a copy of the Retained EU Regulations which now apply in the UK. These are updated by UK secondary legislation (Statutory Instruments) and all EU Exit amendments have been incorporated.
- We have separated the retained Technical Standards into a new collection. These are updated by the relevant UK regulators (FCA, PRA, Bank of England, Payment Services Regulator) and all EU Exit amendments have been incorporated.
- The EU Directives and EU Regulations rulebooks apply only in the EU27 member states and will continue to be updated by the EU Parliament, Council and Commission.

FCA Handbook

- In 2019 the FCA published a series of EU Exit Legal Instruments to come into effect on Exit Day, under the 2018 act.
- In 2020 the FCA published further series of EU Exit Legal Instruments, which revised earlier amendments to come into effect on IP Completion Day under the 2020 act.
- The 2020 amendments assume that the 2019 amendments have already been made to the text, and so the amendments must be made in sequence.

- We are prioritising amendments to the Glossary first and then working through other amendments in sequence. As of 14 April, we have completed over 50% of the total amendments.
- The progress of implementing amendments can be tracked through the Status Check.

PRA Rulebook

The PRA published, following the trade and cooperation agreement, a single EU Exit Legal Instrument, revoking its earlier amendments and setting out changes to its rules in 80 annexes, all but one of which are effective from IP completion day.

- As of 14 April, we have completed over 66% of all amendments.
- The progress of implementing amendments can be tracked through the Status Check.
